Project TypeLearn Techniques by Kate Pullen/Spruce Crafts Paper Beads are easy to create, and a few rubber punching techniques are all that is required to create beautiful and unusual beads. The basic method can be adapted in many ways to achieve different effects. It's also a great way to use up odds and ends paper. Even the most promising paper can make beautiful beads. Check out this paper ball roundup of things to do with the newly completed beads. You don't have to follow the pattern. However, a simple PDF print paper bead template is offered here if necessary. The paper beads pattern was designed specifically to decorate with rubber stamping. Instead of narrowing to a point, there is a small strip that is just wide enough to show some rubber punching. By changing the size and shape of the paper, the very different designs of the ball can be created. Paper rubber stamps, ink, embossed powders, glitter glue, and any other decoration Craft glue diluted PVA glue to seal the beads (optional) Save the PDF pattern by clicking on the image and then save the file to your computer. Print on the desired paper. A pattern of paper beads. Kate Pullen/Spruce Crafts stamp and decorate the unprintable side of the paper, so the printed lines won't show. Rubber brand with a detailed and intricate design will work well. Repeatedly stamp a rubber stamp over the page to create a tight design. Cut the shapes of the ball out of the paper. Kate Pullen / Spruce Crafts ink edge paper. This will emphasize the design of the beads and give a more finished effect. Glue the back of the paper and carefully roll the ball. We used a thin knitted needle to roll the ball around, as it helps to give a consistent result. Cocktail sticks or other thin and round guns will work equally well. Kate Pullen/Spruce Crafts Make sure the end of the paper is firmly attached, adding an extra smear of glue if necessary. Leave the beads to one side to dry. Once dry, add any other touches, such as jewelry or other decorations. You can seal your paper beads with a layer of diluted glue This gives strength and makes paper beads a light shine. They can also be with a layer of transparent varnish, embossed with embossed powders or even covered with resin. Other ideas for sealing ready-made beads include coating beads in molten ultra thick embossed enamel (UTEE) or adding a layer of nail polish.
